Clint Nagata, founder of Blink Design Group, tells us more about the intriguing objects and collections that recently caught his eye By Hong Xinying

MINOTTI LANG STORAGE UNIT BY RODOLFO DORDONI

Whether you're telecommuting or working in the office, it's a delight to drink a toast to the end of a busy day. "This bar-like unit from Minotti is a wonderful thing to come home to," says Nagata. "The mix of saddle-hide and lacquered ebony wood makes it a stunning addition to any home." minotti.com

MEIJI-ERA JAPANESE VASE

"Having authentic accessories in our hotels helps in creating a strong connection with the destination," he says. "For our project in Kyoto, we found this wonderful bronze vase from the Meiji period." 1stdibs.com

P. TENDERCOOL BRONZE TABLE

"We enjoy working with studios like P. Tendercool, which are great partners in creating bespoke pieces," says the designer. "For a project in the Middle East, we are exploring the idea of creating customised bronze table tops inspired by the rock formations of that area." ptendercool.com

ALEXANDER LAMONT SHANGÓ LAMP

"We have worked with Alexander Lamont on numerous projects, and I have always admired their fine craftsmanship and ability to create beautiful handmade pieces. I love the details on this lamp from their latest collection." tatumcompany.com

MARACA TRAVEL CANDLES

"I have always been enamoured with the idea that scents help to create memories," he says. "These candles are great for travelling, and help transport me to a soothing retreat, wherever in the world I may be." maracaneuwezealand.com
